

The City of Heidenheim an der Brenz and the August-Lösch-Society jointly grant the prestigious

August Lösch Prize 2006.

The prize was created in 1971 and first awarded in 1972 by the City of Heidenheim in honour of August Lösch (1906-1945), one of the founders of modern Regional Science, and a former citizen of Heidenheim.

The prize is intended to reward outstanding academic research in the field of Regional Science. The prize carries an award of Euro 4,000.-. Joint recipients will share this amount.

The Society invites the submission of research work written in either German or English. The prize will be presented at a seminar to be held at the Kiel Institute for World Economics in celebration of August Lösch's centennial in October 2006. August Lösch spent most of his academic career at the Kiel Institute, until his early death in 1945.

The winner, or the winners, will be selected by an international committee headed by Johannes Bröcker, University of Kiel, Germany.

Submissions:

- All types of manuscripts such as PhD theses, books, book chapters or research papers will be considered. Research papers already should have been accepted for publication in a peer reviewed international journal. However, no work published before 2002 should be submitted.
- Contributions by young academics will be preferred over that of established professors.
- Documents must be submitted in electronic form (pdf) to august-loesch-preis@economics.uni-kiel.de. For large files, please ask for upload address and password at august-loesch-preis@economics.uni-kiel.de.
- The deadline for submission is April 30, 2006.
- The submission should be accompanied by a CV and a summary of the submitted work in English (maximum of 3 pages).
- The winner, or the winners, will be invited to the seminar in Kiel. All expenses will be covered.
